

REINECKER IS GUILTY OF MURDER IN MANNER AND FORM AS INDICTED.

The Trial Lasting a Week Ended in a Verdict of Murder in the First Degree.

As Compiler went to press last week the testimony of J. F. Walters, county detective of Dauphin county, was being concluded, proof having been made of the signed confession.

Miss Miller, the stenographer of the Dauphin Co. District Attorney, next testified having taken down the confession in short hand and having transcribed the same on typewriter and identified the same.

Mrs. Woutersz, of Gettysburg, testified to a conversation had with Reinecker in the jail in which he said he had no grudge against Collins for giving him the pistol to commit the deed with.

Charles H. Wilson detailed the arrest of Reinecker while at work at the meat market of George F. Reichle and taking him to the office of J. L. Williams, Esq., where Collins had been taken a half hour before. He told of warning Reinecker that anything he said would be used against him.

The story of the taking of car to the Goodman garage was again given by Joseph Goodman, Frank Hodge, detective, told of Goodman turning over the car to him after calling up authorities and telling how it had come into his possession. The car was next given to Chas. H. Wilson who brought it back to Gettysburg and George Eberhart identified the car as belonging to George Bushman.

The story of the bringing of Collins and Reinecker from Harrisburg was next presented. How defendant was warned about his rights. Burgess James W. Eicholtz was in the car with Chas. H. Wilson, two prisoners, and Joseph M. Bushman. When the point was reached where the murder took place and Collins had identified the place, Mr. Eicholtz asked Reinecker whether this is the place, and received the answer "About the place." Joseph M. Bushman corroborated by telling of having the question and seeing Reinecker assent with a nod, not hearing his words.

S. Miley Miller again described the road and boundary line between Cumberland and Adams counties and that point where murder was said to have taken place was 644 feet from boundary line, well within the 500 yard zone provided by Act of 1860.

The case of the Commonwealth closed with the testimony of J. L. Williams as to the confession made by Reinecker in his office and the case of the Commonwealth was declared closed.

J. D. Keith, Esq., opened the case for the defendant and then four witnesses were presented for the purpose of contradicting in a negative way that the crime was committed at the point where Collins showed the act was done.

The first of these was W. K. Pfeffer, storekeeper at Goodyear. He testified that on the night of the murder he was going from Mount Holly Springs to Goodyear about midnight, and that just before he reached the opening in front of Hunters Run he was passed by a large black touring car going in the direction of Carlisle. Two people were in the front seat. The curtains were all down.

Mr. Pfeffer testified that after proceeding toward Gettysburg and crossing the two little bridges at Hunters Run, he observed from tracks in the road that a car coming from the direction of Mt. Holly Springs toward Gettysburg had turned in and backed around in a road leading into Hunters Run station and then proceeded toward Carlisle. This, it was contended, was the large car he had passed on the road because the tracks where it had turned were not crossed over by any other vehicle.

Harvey Landis, Ambrose Heller, and John Myers, the men who live in the houses closest to where Commonwealth witnesses said the murder took place, all testified that on the night of the affair they were sleeping with their windows up, that they heard no shots, and that no dogs were aroused.

There was submitted evidence as to the age of Reinecker, being first testified to that he was but 10 at the time the crime was committed, but on Saturday morning this was corrected by exhibition of a record showing that he was 17 years old and would be 18 years of age on April 4, 1919.

The attorneys began their arguments to the jury on Saturday morning and entire day was consumed in speeches and charges of the Court. District Attorney Tupper opened with first argument. He was followed by John D. Keith and William Hersh, Esqs., for the defendant, and J. Donald Swope, Esq., assisting the Commonwealth made the concluding speech.

time when the case was given to the jury. They had supper before arriving at their verdict and a few minutes after 8 o'clock the Court had reconvened to receive the verdict. The court room was packed to its capacity, and when prisoner was brought in and jury were in their seats, the verdict was taken of "murder in the first degree," and the polling of the jury being demanded every jurymen, unhesitatingly pronounced the verdict they had arrived at.

The prisoner from beginning to end showed little concern in the trial and was unmoved at the result. Most of the time his head was slightly bent with eyes on the floor but did not exhibit any signs of nervousness, but without the air of cocksure unconcern that Collins manifested from start to finish.

A motion for new trial was made.

Civil Cases Tried.

On Monday the Court took up the Trial List of Civil Cases. The first case tried was that of L. V. Straley vs. E. M. Neely. The taking of testimony, argument and charge covered Monday and until Tuesday afternoon. The plaintiff had rented a store room and building from defendant and alleged that defendant had agreed to make certain repairs that had never been made. After occupying the property five years and eleven months and paying the rental for that period, action was brought for damages for the want of the repairs defendant had not made. The defendant denied promising to make the repairs as alleged. There were questions of law about what the agreement proved and promises outside of the agreement by reason of which the lease was made and also as to the effect of payment of rentals by plaintiff when he claimed the damages for breach of contract. All the questions were finally submitted to the jury. J. L. Williams, Esq., representing the plaintiff and Wm. Hersh, Esq., the defendant, and late Tuesday afternoon the jury gave the plaintiff a verdict of $50 and interest, a total of $55 and odd cents.

The case of Elizabeth Lease and Herman Leas vs. Cumberland Valley Telephone Company of Pennsylvania began on Tuesday afternoon and was concluded before adjournment time on Wednesday. The plaintiff's case was based on an accident on the Lincoln Highway near Golden's Station on Saturday, Nov. 4, 1918. They were traveling toward York and passed a car containing Dr. E. H. Markley and S. Miley Miller and about the same time the Ford truck of the Telephone Company passed between the cars and plaintiffs testified that it struck their car and sent it from the pike towards a tree where it was wrecked and Mrs. Leas was severely injured, suffering for five months afterwards, first having to have her right limb in a splint so that the severed tendon over knee could remain, then on crutches for two weeks and for a number of more weeks had to have help. An actual outlay of $500 was testified to caused by the injury. Dr. E. H. Markley testified that he saw the truck cut in ahead of Leas car and with the right rear wheel and fender struck the left front wheel and fender of the Leas car. He testified he heard the crash of the collision. S. Miley Miller corroborated Dr. Markley in all details except the actual seeing of the collision.

The defense of the defendant was they never touched the Leas car and C. R. Anthony and M. E. Robert testified.

At the conclusion of the testimony Wm. Arch McClean, Esq., opened argument to jury for plaintiffs, followed by J. Donald Swope and C. S. Duncan, Esqs., for the defendant, and McClean Stock, Esq., of York, concluding for the plaintiff. Judge McPherson then charged the jury.

In the evening a verdict was returned for the plaintiffs for Elizabeth Leas $250 and for J. Herman Leas $25, a total of $275. A motion for new trial was made by defendant.

A jury was selected on Wednesday to try the case of George Slusser vs. Henry Straley, an appeal from Justice V. H. Lilly, and before trial could begin on Thursday the case had been settled. J. L. Williams, Esq., for plaintiff, and Wm. Hersh, Esq., for defendant.

Other cases settled were Barbara E. Seltzer vs. D. O. Alday, action of trespass.

E. M. Hoffman vs. E. W. Shriver, action of assumpsit.

With nineteen cases on the trial list, two tried and three settled, there remained fourteen cases continued, by consent of parties and their counsel, as follows:

Baumbitz & Kopp vs. Alexander Robert.

Baumbitz & Kopp vs. Curtis C. Robert.

Beacon Falls Rubber Shoe Co. vs. Harris Brothers.

Cyrus Wolf vs. Washington Wolf.

J. H. Stover vs. J. Herman Bream.

Milton Wolf vs. Lawrence Emmet.

George Kindig vs. Jacob Bringham.

Gyre & Son vs. Harris Brothers.

Pacific Metallic Copper Co. vs. Advance Industrial Supply Co.

Three cases, C. M. Wolf, George Bushman and Charles Plank, and F. C. Cremer vs. H. J. Hartman, Roy P. Funkhouser and all others interested in Gettysburg Baseball Club.

J. E. C. Miller & W. D. Himes vs. William Harner.

FORMER TOWN GIRL A STAR.

Miss Lillian Ring in Musical Comedy.

Prominent among the members of an especially selected cast that appeared in Comstock, Elliott & Gest's big musical comedy hit, "Leave It To Jang," at the Orpheum Theatre, York, on Thursday, Feb. 13, appeared the name of Lillian N. Ring, a girl who has been proclaimed a "find" by Victor Herbert. Mr. Herbert chanced to hear her voice while she was playing in a vaudeville act in Gettysburg. He promptly engaged Miss Ring for a prominent part in "Her Regiment," in which Donald Brian and Caroline White were starred. It was while with that organization that F. Ray Comstock heard of the "unknown," who was practically walking away with the show and immediately made her an offer to play leading roles in one of Comstock, Elliott & Gest's productions.

Miss Ring is a native of this State, her father being manager of the Brooks Hotel, York, and for a number of years was proprietor of the Hotel Gettysburg, who remodeled this hotel and put it in its present modern condition. Her early education was received at Carlisle and Gettysburg. Previous to her professional appearance she was soprano soloist at the First Presbyterian Church in York. She frequently sang in public here delighting her audiences.

A number of town people went to York to hear her and her many friends here were glad to hear of her successful career in light opera.

Engagement Announced by Cable.

The engagement of Lieut. John I. Kuhn, formerly a law partner in the firm of Dykman, Oeland & Kuhn, of Brooklyn, and now attached to the Judge Advocate Division of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, and Miss Pauline H. Lange of Manhattan, who is in the Red Cross service and attached to the staff of the hospital for shell-shock convalescents at Neuilly, France, was announced by cable from France last week. Miss Lange went to France to drive an ambulance in the early days of the war. Later being an expert linguist she was elected to do special work teaching soldiers whose power of speech has been impaired by shell-shock to speak again their native tongue. Lieut. Kuhn is a son of John R. Kuhn, Esq., of Brooklyn, who is a native of East Berlin, this county, and he spends his summers at Bender Lane farm near that place.

School Directors' Convention.

The School Directors' Convention of Adams County met at the Court House on Thursday morning in their twenty-eighth annual two-day session. Hon. C. Arthur Griest, president of the association, presided and greeted the directors with a welcome. Addresses were made by Miss Bess McAllister on "Home Economics Extension Work," H. M. Baish on "State Teachers' Retirement Fund," and C. D. Koch, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, on "Duties of Directors."

The first part of Thursday afternoon session was devoted to a business meeting, hearing of reports of delegates to the State Convention at Harrisburg, and treasurer's report. The latter part of session was made up of addresses by Dr. Koch on "Physical Education," and by Dr. Lee L. Driver, of Winchester, Ind., on "Better Rural Schools."

Thursday evening Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Pittsburgh, addressed the meeting. It was a successful, brilliant address by a man with a vision, who believes in the building of the nation and the future school houses, farmers and auto trucks will have in the building.

Friday morning session began with an address by H. F. Hershey, the enthusiastic and capable County Agent of the Farm Bureau. Prof. W. M. Denison, High School Inspector, spoke on "Selective and Retention of Teachers" and Dr. Driver on "Better Rural Schools."

Friday afternoon Prof. Denison spoke on "The America High School" and Dr. Driver on "The Consolidated School, the Ideal Community Center."

Road Building Starts.

Highway Commissioner Sadler has started the repairing of what is probably as had a stretch of highway as any in the center part of the State, the way through Camp Hill. Work began this week and is in line with the announced plan of the Highway Commissioner to build the State road to Gettysburg in 1919. The portion of the road in Cumberland county, York county and the larger part in Adams county is scheduled for building in 1919 and will be the best type of a modern permanent road, likely to be built with a coating of asphalt. The portions built will be the first year building in the three counties but as Adams county has 16 miles of the way, as much as both other counties, the only part not to be completed this year is a portion in Adams county from Heidlersburg to York county line which will be built in 1920. As this road will likely be used more than any other road in the county to give the people of the State access to Gettysburg and the Lincoln Highway, the choice of the building of this road by State Commissioner Sadler is the one deserving the approval of all our people.

A CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL.

Mt. Joy Township Directors Consider New School Plans.

Mt. Joy township has a vision of a Consolidated School and it is to be hoped that this district realizes the vision. No community can make a mistake with better school facilities. Last Friday evening a meeting was held at Two Taverns and was addressed by Dr. Shultz, former Superintendent of Public Instruction in Minnesota, who explained the plans and working of the consolidated school, where a graded school can be maintained. The mail trucks would be authorized to conduct children to and from school along their routes. The citizens of Mt. Joy were much interested in the project, and school directors expressed themselves willing to go ahead.

The subject of the consolidated school was thoroughly explained at the meeting of the school directors association and Mt. Joy will disapprove many who believe a progressive spirit has taken hold of them, if they do not go ahead with the project.

There are signs all over the county of a healthy, wholesome discontent with schools as they have been. The isolated one room school is going to waste a time when it will be a back number, where the needs of the people will be supplied by graded consolidated schools, district vocational and high schools.

Mr. McDowell, of the National Department of Agriculture addressed the meeting on the "Production of Milk." County Agent H. F. Hershey and a representative of the Post Office Department were present and everything is being done to encourage and stimulate interest in the mail truck route between Two Taverns and Washington so that it will prove a success and for the good of the community.

Rev. Sunday Receives Call.

Rev. William F. Sunday, a student in the Lutheran Theological Seminary, this place, was unanimously elected pastor of the Second Lutheran Church, Chambersburg, at a congregational meeting held last Sunday. Rev. Sunday is a graduate of the York High School, having been a member of the class of 1912. The following fall he entered Gettysburg College, and after completing his course in 1916 entered the Seminary. During last summer he served as supply pastor at the Lutheran Church at Boiling Springs. He will be graduated from the Seminary next May. Rev. Sunday took a very active part in the Third and Fourth Liberty Loan drives in Adams county, being secretary of the committee. When Mr. Sunday's name was proposed at the congregational meeting every member voted for him by two methods, first by a rising vote and second by individual ballot.

Last Day For Income Tax Returns.

Treasury officials have given out notice that there would be no extension of the time for filing income and profit tax returns beyond March 15. This applies alike to individual incomes, corporation income and profit returns and to similar reports required by the new revenue bill which passed the House on Feb. 5 by vote of 310 to 11, and which the Senate was expected to agree to as soon as presented, having already passed it except for a few changes made by the House.

Parent-Teachers' Meeting.

The February meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association will be held in the High School Building on Friday evening at 7:30 when the following program will be rendered: Music, High School Orchestra; solo, Mrs. Beckstrand; duet, Mrs. Beckstrand and Miss Reba Miller; reading, Miss Elsie Gerlach; lesson in "Community Civics," Eighth Grade, addresses by speakers from the directors' convention; singing by the audience led by I. L. Taylor.

Fire Company Meets.

At a meeting of the Fire Company on Wednesday evening it was stated that the company was free of debt. A small balance of $101.30 had been liquidated leaving a balance of $66 in the treasury. Ways and means toward a more substantial financial basis will be continued.

C. O. Myers, J. A. Menchey and Andrew Becker were placed on the retired list, having reached retirement age. They will no longer be required to attend meetings or fires. Three applications were received and filled. They are ten vacancies yet to be filled and application for same are desired.

Allan B. Plank, the retiring chief, presented a chief's badge to the company.

Woman's League of College.

The Woman's League of Gettysburg College last week elected their officers for the year: President, Mrs. G. D. Stahley; Vice Presidents, Mrs. Karl Grimm, Mrs. H. M. Hartman, Mrs. R. C. Miller, Mrs. E. H. Markley, Mrs. Albert Billheimer, Mrs. D. P. McPherson, Mrs. W. A. Miller; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Kate Gilbert; Treasurer, Miss Alice Pickering; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. Felton. The collection at a tea held during the afternoon amounted to $107.50.

Parsons, Kan. She also leaves one brother, W. H. Houghtlin, of Jersey Hill, Ill. The body was taken to Abilene for interment. Her husband had been buried there.

Miss Sarah Rebecca Linebaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Linebaugh, died January 30 at her home near New Chester. Death was due to influenza. She was aged 7 years, 3 months and 21 days. She leaves her parents and several brothers and sisters. The funeral was held Saturday, interment in the Lutheran Cemetery at Abbottstown.

Frank D. McIntyre, formerly of Mountaineer, this county, lost his life in a fire in Baltimore on Sunday night. He went to Baltimore on Jan. 13 and obtained employment as night watchman at the plant of the Mullen Dredging and Construction Co. He was last seen alive by a fellow employee Sunday night. Three hours later a shed in the Mullen plant in which he was accustomed to sleep from an overheated stove it is thought and when the firemen arrived the charred remains of McIntyre were found in the ruins. He was born in Adams county 55 years ago the 16th of February next and was the son of Fred McIntyre, deceased. Some thirty years ago he lost a leg in an accident while serving as a brakeman on the Western Maryland railroad. He removed to Waynesboro nine years ago and had since been employed in the shops for a good part of that time. He had traveled about the country a good deal, and last fall he made a trip to England, sailing from Newport News, Va., on a transport with a cargo of horses. He was in London on November 11, the day the armistice was signed and witnessed the rejoicing there on the conclusion of the war. He was gone nearly two months. He leaves his wife and five daughters and sons: Mrs. Howard Kugler, Mary E. Harry, Catherine, and Donald, all of Waynesboro; also these brothers and sisters: Mrs. Harry Buhrman, of Waynesboro; Mrs. Andrew McClear, of Emmitsburg; Mrs. William Staley, Charles and James McIntyre, of near Mountaineer; Mrs. Sallie McIntyre, William and Connie McIntyre, of Chicago.

Mrs. Charles F. Langdon, of Adel, Iowa, died in a hospital in Chicago on Thursday, January 30th. Mrs. Langdon was a resident of Gettysburg all last summer while her husband was stationed at Camp Colt as an officer in the Tank Corps. and made many friends during her stay here. She is survived by her husband, who is in France, and an infant son, born Jan. 12. Lieut. and Mrs. Langdon lived in the flat in the Diehl Building, Balto. street.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been made to the Orphans' Court of Adams County for an order to enter a decree that the presumption of death of William Elmer E. Cline, late of Payette, Idaho, has been established and that his estate shall devolve as in the case of actual death and that the persons entitled under the Intestate Laws of Pennsylvania may enter and take possession, in which the following allegations appear:

In the Orphans' Court of Adams County, Pennsylvania.

In re: Estate of William Elmer E. Cline, late of Payette, Idaho.

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Orphans' Court of Adams County, Pennsylvania:

The petition of Martin L. Cline, of Wakefield, Kansas, respectfully represents:

First. That his father, William F. Cline, late of the Borough of Bendersville, County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania, died on the 15th day of March, 1914, testate, having first made his Last Will and Testament in writing dated the 4th day of June, 1910, and which was duly probated in the Register's Office of Adams County on the 23rd day of March, 1914, of which the following is a complete and correct copy.

"THIS IS THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF me, William F. Cline, of Bendersville, in the County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania, made this 4th day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred ten.

"I hereby revoke all Wills made by me at any time heretofore. I appoint my wife, Matilda Jane Cline to be my executor and direct that all my debts and funeral expenses shall be paid as soon as conveniently may be after my decease.

"I give and bequeath unto my son, Martin L. Cline, the sum of $25.00, to my son William Elmer E. Cline, the sum of $5.00. I give and bequeath all the balance of my estate, lands, money, of whatever kind I am then possessed of (and that she be not required to give bond) to my wife, the said aforesaid Matilda Jane Cline."

Second. That Matilda Jane Cline, the wife of the said testator, died before the testator and your petitioner is advised and believes that the bequest to her therefore lapsed and that the petitioner and his brother, William Elmer E. Cline, are the only children, or the offspring of children to survive the testator as his heirs at law and next of kin.

Third. That letters of administration c. t. a. were on the 23rd day of March, 1914, duly issued and granted by the Register of Wills of Adams County to your petitioner, who filed his First and Final Account in your Court, which was duly confirmed on the 14th day of June, 1915, showing a balance in hand for distribution to and among the heirs at law and next of kin of said William F. Cline, deceased, amounting to $5470.91.

Fourth. That your petitioner is advised and believes that, under the terms of said Will as above quoted, William F. Cline, the father (the mother's death having preceded the death of the testator) died intestate as to his estate, he having failed to make any other disposition of it then, as set forth in the Will, as above quoted, and that your petitioner and his brother, William Elmer E. Cline, were the only children of the decedent and were all of his heirs at law and next of kin and therefore entitled, if living, to the balance as shown on the account in equal shares.

Fifth. That William Elmer E. Cline was never married and left to survive him no children or heirs at law other than your petitioner as his next of kin.

Sixth. That, in the settlement of the estate of the father, William F. Cline, deceased, your petitioner received the share, which amounted to Two Thousand Seven Hundred Thirty Nine and 42/100 Dollars, that the share of his brother, William Elmer E. Cline, has not been paid to him because he has not been able to locate him anywhere.

Seventh. That William Elmer E. Cline went to the West about thirty years ago and has not been in this jurisdiction since. That his last place of residence was Payette, Idaho. That he has been absent from Payette, Idaho, the place of his last domicile for more than eleven years last past. That your petitioner has made every effort known to him at Payette, Idaho, and elsewhere, to discover the whereabouts of his brother but has been unable to obtain any information whatever relative to his present whereabouts. That your petitioner alleges that he is dead and that he has been advised, under the law, the failure of anyone to have heard from him or to have any knowledge of him either directly or indirectly within seven years last past at the place of his last known residence, raises the presumption of his death.

Eighth. That William Elmer E. Cline possessed an estate other than his share in the estate of his father, William F. Cline, late of the Borough of Bendersville, County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania, which remains in the hands of your petitioner as administrator c. t. a. amounting to the sum of Two Thousand Seven Hundred Thirty-five and 42/100 Dollars, and therefore the greater part of his property is situated within the County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that letters of administration be granted by the Register of Wills of Adams County to Harry W. Rountson, of Bendersville, Adams County, Pennsylvania, in place and stead of your petitioner, who is heir at law and next of kin of William Elmer E. Cline and entitled to letters on the estate of said William Elmer E. Cline.

(Signed) MARTIN L. CLINE
The undersigned, Master, was appointed by the Orphans' Court of Adams County on the 11th day of November, 1918, to hear evidence concerning the alleged absence of William Elmer E. Cline, the alleged presumed decedent and the circumstances and duration thereof. Any person or persons in anywise interested therein will please take notice that the said Master will sit for the discharge of the duties of his appointment on the 4th day of March, 1919, at his office in the Borough of Gettysburg, County of Adams and State of Pennsylvania.

DID NOT INVENT TELESCOPE

But Galileo Was the First to Perceive Its Possibilities in the Study of Astronomy.

The name of the man who first framed and used a telescope for the observation of the heavenly bodies is Galileo Galilei, though little known in that form. It was this scientist, who died January 8, 1642, who, it may be said, first gave stability and force to the theory which places the sun in the center of the planetary system. In April or May, 1609, Galileo heard at Venice of a little tubular instrument made by Hans Lippershey of Middelburg, which made distant objects appear nearer, and he immediately applied himself to experimentation on the means by which such an instrument could be produced. Procuring a couple of spectacle glasses, each plain on one side, but one convex and the second concave on the other side, and applying his eye to the concave glass, he found that objects were magnified three times, and brought apparently nearer. Soon after having made one which could magnify 33 times, Galileo commenced observations on the surface of the moon, which he discovered to be irregular, like that of the earth, and on Jupiter, which, in 1610, he ascertained to be attended by four stars, as he called them, which afterward proved to be its satellites.

CRUSADERS WON AND LOST

In the End Nothing Was Gained by Attempted Conquest of the Holy Land.

During the four centuries from the Moslem conquest of Palestine until the crusades Christian, Jew and Moslem lived together in peace. Then along came Peter the Hermit and the Crusaders. The second coming of Christ had been forecast for the year 1000. The passing of that year without any catastrophe awakened an era of Christian piety that held the world safe through the year 1093, the anniversary of the crucifixion.

Peter the Hermit prevailed upon Pope Urban II to sanction the first crusade. It proved a successful venture, for Jerusalem was captured July 14, 1099, and Godfrey of Bouillon elected king of Jerusalem.

Saladin became master of Egypt and Syria toward the end of the twelfth century, after defeating the Crusaders at the battle of Hattin in 1187, capturing the most treasured of relics, a piece of the true cross. This provoked the third crusade, led by Richard Coeur de Lion and commemorated in Scott's novel, "The Talisman." The Crusaders captured Constantinople for the Venetians, but failed of the entire conquest of Palestine.

Are You a Barometer?

Undoubtedly there is a great relation between the elements and certain complaints in the same way that some seasons of the year render certain people liable to illness more than others. The lower we investigate in the animal world the more prone are its subjects to be affected by the weather. A cat for as much as three days before-hand feels a coming storm; a horse's fine nostrils can sniff approaching rain in an uncanny manner. The birds of the air have but to be watched to see the way in which they seek their nests at a hint of danger in the air. The reeve trees and ponds tremble in a peculiar manner before a severe storm. Many human beings are just as sensitive to the march of the elements, but do not always realize the significance of their sensitiveness. People who suffer from colds, rheumatism or neuralgia know at once when bad weather is approaching. Old wounds make themselves felt at certain times, and the stumps of members long since amputated give pain. Medical men have never satisfactorily explained these strange phenomena, neither can they tell why some people instinctively become restless and excited or moody, or sullen before thunderstorms.

Wilson Not the Only One.

One other president than Wilson made his home in Carlisle, England.

for Zachary Taylor was fifth in descent from James Taylor of Carlisle, who emigrated to this country in 1658. Considering the fairly uniform British extraction of our presidents, few indeed could have gone to the homes of really near ancestors in the British Isles. Andrew Jackson is the only one whose father was born there, the elder Jackson having come from Carrickfergus, Ireland, a decade before the Revolution. Grant is not particularly distinguished in that his family had been American in all its branches for eight generations; as much could be said of others. It seems appropriate that the first president in office to visit the mother country felt so intimately the ties of blood that originally gave it the name of mother country.—New York Post.

Rumor.

The character of that sort of information that is generally known as news is changing with vertiginous rapidity. Once news was generally supposed to be a narration of something that had happened or was possibly going to happen, with, of course, due allowances for errors and mistaken judgments. Now, however, news seems to be made up of reporting what somebody alleges might have happened. Rumor, of itself, has a true value. The fact that a rumor exists is sufficient of itself, aside from its truth or falsity of the rumor, its truth or its possibility.

MAKING CITIZENS OF ALIENS

Excellent Work Done Through Classes Conducted Under Auspices of Bureau of Naturalization.

Many aliens who enter the naturalization courts as candidates for citizenship are much better grounded in the knowledge of American government and institutions than the average native of this country. Indeed, some aliens are able to answer questions that the judges themselves are not able to answer off-hand.

The reason for their excellent knowledge of the American government lies in the care taken by the citizenship classes, now conducted in public schools throughout the country by the bureau of naturalization, department of labor, to inculcate thorough familiarity with the institutions of the land of their adoption. The courses given by these classes are designed to raise the standard of citizenship by insuring a preparation adequate to meet the requirements of the most exacting state laws.

Naturalization is a somewhat complicated process at best, for not only must the alien satisfy the requirements of the state in which he expects citizenship, but he must also meet the demands of the naturalization court, which has the right to reject his application, at its own discretion.

The citizenship classes aim to make the way to citizenship as easy as possible for men and women who are willing to fit themselves for it.—Critt.

SPRUNG UP UNDER FIRE

Soldier in the Trenches Wielded Razor While Enemy Shells Were Razing Above Him.

The sailor who can shave himself in a storm has found his match in the soldier Walter Ehrman, a Kansas City man, saw at the Arizona front. Ehrman was with a medical corps and as he passed into No Man's Land with the stretcher bearers, he noticed a youth in khaki hiding in a shell hole.

"He had a mirror between his knees," writes Ehrman, "and he was intermittently shaving himself. Which is to say, that, between acts, he'd mow a section of his face. Whenever a shell would come over he would duck expertly, only to resume his interrupted task in moments of what you might call peace."

"Hey, huddle, do you need a shave that bad?" I asked him.

"Aw, my mug's so blame dirty, had to have it," was his reply.

"And here's another: One of our medics found a pair of hair clippers on the field, and while he was waiting in a shell hole with a doughboy waiting in enemy barracks should light up, he clipped that doughboy's hair as nice and stylish as you please, till they'd hardly let him in when he returned to the trench, he looked that different."

Tim Healy's Wit.

The resignation of Tim Healy from parliament, says a writer in Tit-Bits, means that the house will lose its greatest wit. I recall, from his inexhaustible list of witticisms, his description of a bill to which he objected as the offspring of "a headache of the Irish office," while he once declared that the making of the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman into chief secretary was an attempt to govern Ireland with Scotch jokes. One of Tim's most exquisite imaginings, however, was during a divorce case, when he said that "the spectacle of his learned friend's client crying in the witness box was the greatest miracle that had ever happened since Moses drew water from the rock."

Ministry of Knitters.

With real regret a good many of our ladies will lay aside their knitting needles at the word that their industry has supplied the immediate needs of the soldiers and sailors. Their record of millions of sweaters, helmets and other protective gear is unexampled in the history of the world, and will be immortal in the grateful memories of the returning heroes. These knitters did not need to begin their lesson of thought for others when they took up knitting. But having kept it at the forefront of attention for so long, they will certainly be eager to find other means of thoughtful ministry.—Congregationalist and Advance.

Was Good to See Her.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, who is home on a furlough after four years of service in France, where she has been for the last 18 months directress of canteens for the Red Cross, was just about to enter a New York shop the other day when she felt some one touching her arm. Turning, she was face to face with two husky doughboys that she had helped to nurse back to health in one of the convalescent homes in France. "Mrs. Vanderbilt," one exclaimed, while both extended rough, work-hardened hands, "It's sure good to see you again. We don't forget old friends like you."

Kaiser's Sublime Vanity.

Of the innumerable stories told of the ex-kaiser's vanity none surpasses one concerning a little incident that took place on board a British warship a few years ago. The recently deposed emperor was being entertained at dinner during a visit to the British fleet, and when smoking began took up a cigar and looked around for a cutter. One not being handy, an officer immediately offered him a pen-knife, which William used and returned with the solemn remark, "Keep it and guard it well; one day it will be historic."

JUDGED BY SKILL AT POKER

Business Man Estimated Another's Qualifications by His Actions at the Card Table.

After all, there is something to be learned from cards, even if the average gambler, who plays for the passion of the game and for the money he expects, does not always learn it. A Los Angeles business man recently asked an acquaintance, "What do you think about Smith? Do you think he could be a good man to take into our firm?" His friend looked him straight in the eye and replied, "Yes, I think he'd be a first-class man to be to and I'll tell you why. I played poker with him last night and I discovered that he plays safe. He is what religious-minded people call 'good'; what cautious, conservative people call 'wise'; and what the world in general, especially the bold ones, call a coward—but a man whom nearly every one secretly respects, envies and almost fears. He never takes a chance. He doesn't gamble. When he bets on a hand he's got the cards. When he doesn't get the cards he lays his hand down with a smile and waits until they 'come to him' and then he plays 'em to the limit. Yes, I think he's safe, all right. He could play with my money at a card table or in the field of business."—Los Angeles Times.

GOVERNMENT TO HELP DAIRYMEN

Ready to Assist Owners of Herds in Controlling Infectious Diseases Among Animals.

ASSISTANCE RENDERED FREE

Members of Several Cow-Testing and Bull Associations Have Accepted Offer and Report Good Results—Herd Lists Issued.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Any herd of cattle built on a foundation of diseased stock cannot survive profitably for any length of time. The wise breeder who is establishing a herd, therefore, will see that his original stock comes from herds known to be free from disease and that the animals have not been otherwise exposed. More than that, the established breeder, to safeguard the health of his herd and meet the increasing demand for healthy stock, should use every means at hand to maintain a herd known to be healthy.

Government Asks Co-operation.

The dairy division, United States department of agriculture, co-operating with the tuberculosis eradication division, is ready to assist members of cow-testing and bull associations in controlling infectious diseases among their animals. This assistance is rendered free in associations whose members request it and who will co-operate with the bureau of animal industry in maintaining healthy herds.

In several cow-testing and bull associations the members have already accepted federal assistance and report good results. Practically all members submit their herds to the necessary tests and in this way start tuberculosis-free communities, which are expected eventually to grow to counties, then to states, and finally the entire United States may be freed from bovine tuberculosis.

Accredited Herd Lists Stimulate Sales.

Accredited herd lists will be issued at suitable intervals. These lists contain the names and addresses of the owners, and a statement of the breed of cattle maintained by those owners whose herds are found to be free from tuberculosis.

Already approximately 50,000 copies of the first list have been distributed among breeders, state officials, extension men, breed associations, and others. Breeders whose names appear on this list state that as a result they have received numerous inquiries from prospective purchasers, some buyers even desiring to purchase the entire herd.

Certain communities have become unfavorably conspicuous for the large number of tuberculosis cattle found in them, and purchasers of cattle both for breeding and slaughtering purposes are shunning those sections. On the other hand, when sections become noted for their healthy cattle, buyers obviously will seek animals from the breeders in such tuberculosis-free localities.

PROPER SOIL FOR SOY BEANS

Crop Does Not Require Much Drainage for Best Development—Too Much Water Harmful.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The soy bean does not require a well-drained soil for its best development, although it will not succeed where water stands for any considerable length of time. Swamp and peat soils, after being drained and limed, have usually been found to produce this crop very well. Soy beans will thrive on soils that are too acid for the successful culture of red clover.

BEST AS A DORMANT SPRAY

Lime-Sulphur Is Effective When Applied of Proper Strength—Kills Egg Clusters.

Lime-sulphur answers practically all purposes as a dormant spray, being effective, when applied of proper strength, for San Jose and other scale insects. It also kills many egg clusters of insects and serves as a fungicide, killing the spores of many of the diseases that injure the trees and fruit.

NOT STRONG ON NAVIGATION

Records Show Weakness of the Spanish Sailor in That Highly Important Matter.

The Spaniards of early days were most adventurous explorers, but, for all their discoveries of distant lands, very poor navigators. After coming upon the Solomon islands in the western Pacific, they could not find them again, and they were lost for 150 years.

The water supply of their ship was kept in big earthen jars. As it was impossible to provide in this way enough to drink for a long voyage, they took to sea many large mats, which when it rained were spread to catch the drops. From the mats the water was drained off into the jars.

Probably it was no fault of Columbus, but his first voyage to America, which occupied two months' time, was mainly a drift. When he landed in Cuba he thought he had reached Asia, and sent an expedition inland to treat with the great khan of Tartary. Later his flagship, the Santa Maria, ran aground off the coast of Haiti, the natives of which island welcomed him most hospitably. He noticed three or four of them whose naked bodies showed scars which they attributed to bites inflicted by man-eating savages of another island called Caniba. Whence the origin of the word cannibal—the island inhabited by these anthropophagi being Porto Rico.

Less than 100 years ago Spain still claimed ownership of the whole Pacific ocean, declaring it a Spanish lake on the strength of Balboa's discovery in 1513. Acting upon this idea, the Spanish government ordered the commander of San Francisco to seize the Columbia, the first vessel that carried the American flag around Cape Horn.

Familiar Quotations.

The quotation worthy of the high title of "familiar" must have stood the test of time and passed unharmed through the shifting tides and fashions of centuries. In its lofty or in its humble way it must show that, like Shakespeare's "I was not for an age, but for all time," it is the word "humility" because the themes of childhood, of the nursery, fulfill the requirement of use in a quotation worthy to be called familiar. Their intrinsic, their abstract merits may appear slight, they may even seem to be sheer nonsense, but they are passed on by mothers and nurses and by the children themselves from generation to generation. We may be assured that they would not thus have lived and prospered if they had not possessed some quality, however slender, of genuine worth, of real humor or imagination, which gave them permanence.—Henry Cabot Lodge in Scribner's.

Neutral Nations in War Time.

James Mill, the English economist, as early as 1821, almost a century before ruthless submarine warfare was introduced by Germany, advocated a commercial world traffic under free trade rules, so far as concerns the property of individuals in time of war in this way, he thought, an end would be put to the difficulties and disputes about the maritime traffic of neutrals. In advocating this principle he was of the conviction that all nations gain by the free operations of commerce. Mill was also of the opinion that what justifies a nation to enter a war also determines when a war ought to cease. He maintained that if the legitimate object of a war is compensation for an injury received and security against future injury, then a successful war ought to terminate immediately on the attainment of the object.

Spitzbergen's Mineral Wealth.

The enormous coal and iron beds in Spitzbergen belong to the British company, the Northern Exploration company, Ltd., which has been investigated by experts who found that the iron beds are without exception the largest in Europe. Whole mountains of massive iron ore are said to have been observed, covering a distance of over 17 miles and situated in good harbors, in which ships of any size can enter. One of the English coal beds is stated to be working already.

Found Platinum Beds.

Dr. Herschel C. Parker of Columbia university, while on an exploring expedition to Alaska last summer, discovered extensive platinum beds in the Sushitana and Yentna valleys in the Cook inlet country. He brought out a large number of ore samples on his return to the States, and is now engaged in making five tests of the metal. He expects to establish a plant for handling the ore when he goes back to Alaska next spring.

"The Alaska platinum ore is low grade," said Doctor Parker, "but it is there in abundance. It will have to be handled in large quantities and under scientific methods of economy to make it pay. The question of its commercial value is simply one of engineering. With the end of the war and the consequent wide use of platinum for jewelry, I believe the Alaska beds will prove a valuable source of world supply."

My Love Port.

A mystery story of the east coast of England was one of the wonders of the war, the story was revealed as Hilda thought of her love. Here there is a little bit of marshland surrounded by the waters of the River Stour, and upon this has been built a town, and it is already over two thousand years old. In this place one and a quarter tons of stores have been sent to the coast since the war. This great store pile is just outside Sandwich, one of the old Channel ports famous in the days of Queen Elizabeth. The ancient town, where a few years ago the grass was growing in the streets has taken on a new lease of life.

Every Name is Wanted For the Official State Records.

Read the above questions carefully and answer them fully so that honor may be given where honor is due to the State of Pennsylvania and its gallant defenders. The War History Commission, of the Pennsylvania Council of National Defense, is compiling an official record for historical purposes, of the men who, during the great war, entered the military and naval service of the United States or the Allies.

Names of men who voluntarily enlisted are, in particular, apt to be missing from the Honor Roll unless furnished by their families or friends. But all names, whether those of men who enlisted or who entered the service by draft selection are wanted.

Fill out a War Service Record for your soldier or sailor boy and mail it without delay.

That Wilson Smile.

A Frenchman explains President Wilson's popularity in Paris in this way:

"We have had many rulers come to visit us in these late weeks," he said, "but crowned heads like the Kings of England, Italy, and Belgium cannot dissociate themselves from their military rank. They come in wonderful uniforms with decorations glittering with braid and decorations. Essentially their reception had to partake of the military aspect in a dominant manner. To the salutes and cheers of the crowds these rulers had to make only the stiff military salute of acknowledgment. Naturally this is not very personal. Ever a king's salute is like that of any other officer."

"But," he continued, "your President came in civilian clothes, very plain, wholly undecorated, not even a ribbon in his lapel. His hat was constantly off. He was unhampered by uniform. He smiled, even laughed outright, in greeting the Parisians. People now and then caught his direct glance. It was personal, very human, and we Parisians like that. So the infection of this personal touch went through the crowds. There you have it. It was different."

"He is a little reminiscent of our late President Faure," he ended. "His smile, and the intimate bow are much alike."

Home Service Work of Red Cross.

While the cessation of hostilities has necessarily lessened many Red Cross activities, it has on the other hand, increased the responsibilities of the Home Service Section of the Red Cross, and has emphasized its importance. The work of the Home Service is to help in all the problems of living that come to the families of soldiers and sailors during their absence. If a friend is needed to help in difficulties of life, sickness or financial problems, or if information is desired concerning business or legal matters; if they want to know how to write concerning allotments or compensation, or War Risk Insurance, or if they are anxious over non-receipt of mail; the Home Service is ready to help in every way possible.

To the discharged soldiers or sailors and their families, the Home Service Section offers its services in the re-adjustments necessary in getting back to normal civilian life. If it is a question of arrears in back pay, or of compensation, assistance will be given in preparing the proper form of letter to the Director of Finance. If it is a question of re-employment, the United States Employment Service has asked the Red Cross to cooperate with it in finding employment for disabled soldiers and sailors. Whatever the problem may be that causes anxiety, it may be brought to the Home Service Section, and no matter how great or small the difficulty may be, there is brought to bear upon its solution all of the resources and helpful service which is in its power to render. The obligation of the Home Service will only be liquidated when the army is completely demobilized and all arrangements, which the War has made in the soldiers' and sailors' families have been met. Local office Room 6, in the Court House.

ARENDTSTVILLE.

Mrs. Jacob Comfort, in her 90th year, who resided in this town for many years until three weeks ago when she moved with Mrs. Horace G. Comfort to Cashtown, where she had the misfortune to miss the steps and fall and break her right hip. Mrs. Aaron Freed, also an aged lady of this place, was spending the winter in the home of her son Harry E. Freed in Philadelphia, where she is reported critically ill from a complication of diseases.

Amos Minter, who has been an invalid for the past eight years, and whose left side is paralyzed and his speech affected, has just got over a spell of three days lying on his back, which has weakened him very much.

Jacob Minter, of near this place, has been housed during the last few months suffering with dropsy in his lower limbs.

Aaron Cutschall, of Beecherville, is quite ill suffering with dropsy.

Wm. Eyster is confined to his bed suffering with heart failure.

Hanson W. Taylor purchased a large bank barn from Henry Kimpke in the Buchanan Valley and his neighbors and friends are assisting him with their teams hauling the lumber to his home where he will rebuild it on the sight where his barn was burnt several weeks ago.

Last week our merchants paid 30 cents for eggs but have advanced the price to 36 cents again.

Big Gain in Cattle.

The number of cattle, including milk cows, swine, and sheep in the United States increased 6,315,000 during the year 1918. These figures will be made public in a report of the Department of Agriculture which has gone to the printers and will be ready for distribution in the next week or ten days.

Never in the history of the United States have there been so many hogs in the country as at present. During the war period from 1914 to Jan. 1 of this year the swine increased by more than 16,600,000 head. Also in 1918 there was registered for the first time in more than two decades a substantial increase in the number of sheep in the country. As for dairy animals the herds have increased by more than 2,750,000 head since the outbreak of the war and by more than 3,200,000 since 1910. Cattle, other than milk cows, also shows a tremendous increase. The cattle herds in the United States have increased by more than 8,500,000 since the outbreak of the war.

On Jan. 1 last the value of the milk cows of the United States was $1,830,055,000, the other cattle was worth $1,060,670,000, the value of the swine was $1,665,827,121, and that of the sheep flocks $579,010,440.

League of Nations Born.

The League of Nations or Society of Nations is supposed to have been officially born on February 10 when the reading of the first draft of the constitution had been concluded and all points agreed upon. While its birth is said to have taken place there has as yet been no authoritative statement of the constitution given out.

It is declared to have been so far accepted that President Wilson is expected to sail for home on February 16, but it is expected that after Congress adjourns March 4th and all the pressing business has been disposed of that President Wilson will return to Paris.

The American people are now of about one mind that President Wilson should go and be where he believes he can be of the most service to his country and humanity.

POULTRY FACTS

ISOLATE ALL AILING FOWLS
 Some Common Poultry Diseases and Treatment—Use Potassium Permanganate for Colds.
 (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 All diseased birds should be isolated. Colds and Roup—Disinfect the drinking water as follows: To each gallon of water add the quantity of potassium permanganate that will remain on the surface of a dime.
 Canker—Sprinkle a little flowers of sulphur in the mouth and throat of the bird and put some chlorate of potash in the water. Also carefully remove the exudate with the aid of warm water and paint with iodine or apply a good disinfectant to the diseased tissue.

 Chicken Pox—Apply a touch of iodine to each sore and then cover with carbolated vaseline. If the diseased parts are kept well covered with the vaseline it will usually effect a cure.
 Gapes—New ground and vigorous cultivation will often remedy this trouble. A liberal sprinkling of lime around the coops and runs is quite often an effective remedy.
 Scaly Legs—Apply vaseline containing a disinfectant to the affected parts, and after 24 hours soak in warm soapy water. Repeat treatment until cured.
 Diarrhea in Hens—Low-grade wheat flour or middlings are good for this trouble. Also give each fowl a teaspoonful of castor oil containing five drops of oil of turpentine.
 Bowel Trouble in Chicks—Well-boiled rice mixed with a little charcoal will often check this complaint. Dis-olve 15 grains of crude catechu in each gallon of drinking water.

MORE POULTRY IS REQUIRED
 Standard-Bred Fowls Increase Production and Improve Quality—Match Chicks Early.
 Keep better poultry: Standard-bred poultry increases production and improves the quality.
 Select vigorous breeders: Healthy, vigorous breeders produce strong chicks.
 Hatch the chicks early: Early hatched pullets produce fall and winter eggs.
 Preserve eggs for home use: Preserve when cheap for use when high in price.
 Produce infertile eggs: They keep better. Fertile eggs are necessary for hatching only.
 Cull the flocks: Eliminate unprofitable producers and reduce the feed bill.
 Keep a back-yard flock: A small flock in the back yard will supply the family table.
 Grow your poultry feed: Home-grown feed insures an available and economical supply.
 Eat more poultry and eggs: By eating poultry and eggs more freely you will conserve the meat supply.

WHEAT FOR EGG PRODUCTION
 Better Food Than Corn in Ration for Laying Hens—Barley is Good Substitute.
 Wheat is a better food for egg production than is corn. A grain ration of wheat, oats and corn is conducive to the manufacture of eggs. Barley may be profitably substituted for the wheat during these days of wheat conservation.
HOPPER IS BIG LABOR SAVER
 Satisfactory Growth Secured by Giving Fowls Access to Balanced Ration of Grain.
 A hopper capable of holding a large quantity of feed is a great labor saver. By allowing the birds access to its contents a satisfactory growth is obtained, and an opportunity is given them to balance the grain rations fed. This hopper should be large enough to hold several bushels of feed, sufficient for one or two weeks.

CAPTAIN WAS "GOOD FELLOW"
 Otherwise Privates Might Have Found Their Playfulness to Be a Serious Matter.
 While serving at Fort Sill, Okla., I was quartered with a Texas cowboy, and he would often amuse himself hours at a time with his lasso. One favorite stunt was to stand in the door of his tent after taps, when all was dark and quiet, and throw his rope around the foot of some unsuspecting comrade returning from town, drawing him into the tent, where he would flash a light into his face, frightening the poor fellow unmercifully.
 One night at his game an unusually large fellow was caught and he whispered to me to help drag him in, which I cheerfully did. The big fellow came into the tent on his back, swearing with all his might. We threw the light into his face with a laugh and were greeted with the two shining bars of our captain! I lost no time in getting outside of the tent, and suppose my brave cow-puncher disappeared in some such way. For days we could picture ourselves behind bars at Fort Leavenworth, and upon being called to the captain's tent a week later all hope faded. Right here I wish to declare our captain a good fellow, as we were dismissed with a reprimand and a request that the performance never be repeated.—Detroit Free Press.

CEAR TO LIVE IN LEGEND
 World May Look for All Sorts of Tales Concerning Autocrat of All the Russias.
 The czar of Russia is lost in legend. Unless he shall again appear definitely in the flesh, so that his identity may be positively established before all the world, the question of his fate will be always disputed. He will take his place in the list with the lost dauphin of France, who is supposed to have lived a quiet life in America after being spirited away, and with "John Ord," a brother of Franz Josef, who renounced his title and sailed away in a vessel reported lost with all hands, but who is supposed to be living incognito on an obscure, palm-shaded island, far from the reach of the turmoil that marked the last days of the Hapsburg court.
 As a result of the conflicting stories now being circulated regarding the czar, the public mind is already divided as to whether a bolshevik bullet really ended his life or whether the Count Tatischev, the emperor's personal military attache, with a supreme devotion to duty, died in his master's stead. Only the clearing up of the mystery can prevent the reports years hence that in the death of some obscure old man of foreign appearance the end has finally come to him who was once Autocrat of All the Russias.

CEAR TO LIVE IN LEGEND
 World May Look for All Sorts of Tales Concerning Autocrat of All the Russias.
 The czar of Russia is lost in legend. Unless he shall again appear definitely in the flesh, so that his identity may be positively established before all the world, the question of his fate will be always disputed. He will take his place in the list with the lost dauphin of France, who is supposed to have lived a quiet life in America after being spirited away, and with "John Ord," a brother of Franz Josef, who renounced his title and sailed away in a vessel reported lost with all hands, but who is supposed to be living incognito on an obscure, palm-shaded island, far from the reach of the turmoil that marked the last days of the Hapsburg court.
 As a result of the conflicting stories now being circulated regarding the czar, the public mind is already divided as to whether a bolshevik bullet really ended his life or whether the Count Tatischev, the emperor's personal military attache, with a supreme devotion to duty, died in his master's stead. Only the clearing up of the mystery can prevent the reports years hence that in the death of some obscure old man of foreign appearance the end has finally come to him who was once Autocrat of All the Russias.

JEWS NOT EASILY CONVERTED
 Sermon to Which They Were Annually Forced to Listen Failed of Its Purpose.
 In John Evelyn's diary of January 7, 1645, there is a notation of a peculiar ceremony which seems to have been an annual occurrence at Rotterdam. As a sermon preached to a congregation of Jews, with a view to their conversion. Mr. Evelyn says "they are constrained to sit till the hour is done, but it is with so much malice in their countenances, spitting, humming, coughing and motion, that it is almost impossible they should hear a word from the preacher. A conversion is very rare."
 The Zionist movement, which has gone on for years and received a new impetus by the changes in the middle Europe as a result of the world war, was outlined in a poem written by Robert Browning during his residence in Italy, probably about the middle of the nineteenth century. It is called "Holy Cross Day."

The Old Order Changeth

By JANE OSBORN

"You may be only a poor typist," young little Aunt Caroline had told her niece Babette, "but don't forget that you are a lady—and are entitled to call yourself one so long as you don't do any thing that is unworthy of a real lady."

Aunt Caroline had never done any of those things; in fact, she had worked at rather trying odds for the last ten years in the uptown flat where she kept house for her own four sons and daughters and her niece Babette.

And they had all remained ladies—she and her daughter and the niece, and the three boys had, so far as the mother knew, remained "perfect gentlemen"—in spite of the three flights up and the dingy, bare, painted walls of the kitchen where Caroline's work ever seemed to be done, and in spite of the debts there had been to pay after the husband's long illness.

On the parlor table there was a copy of a well-known book on so-called social usage, and although the chapter on candle parties and the advice the writer of the book gave on "how to get when meeting the English royal family," and how to write to the Archbishop of Canterbury had been of little real use to Caroline, she found much of it immensely helpful to her in her task.

The fact was that Caroline had, as she said, seen very much better days in the years when she and her cousin Babette's mother—for Babette was not a real niece—had, for one brief season mingled in a society that never found its way to Caroline's poor little widow's flat.

Then came the marriages of Caroline and Babette's mother and the death of both Babette's parents, the death of Caroline's husband, the bringing up of the five children in the ways of gentleness, and then, a year ago, Babette's engagement to Caroline's eldest son—who, to be sure, was only a sort of third cousin.

The courtship was conducted along lines that would have been approved by even the author of that book on social decorum on Caroline's parlor table. The young people, reminded that it was not well-bred to go to the theater unchaperoned, never went to the movies on a Saturday night without Caroline in tow, though poor Caroline sometimes endured all kinds of torment fearing that she was a hindrance to their good time. And Caroline remembered that when Babette's mother and she had been engaged they had not permitted their lovers more than the meeziest kisses, and those on the cheek.

Engagements are sometimes broken, they had been told, and a "real lady" would never cease regretting the fact if she had ever allowed any more passionate salute from a man who did not become her husband. So Caroline had told Babette and her son and, though they had been engaged a year, there was but one salute a day, and that very decorously upon the cheek.

When the first Christmas of their engagement came about Caroline had reminded her children that "well-bred engaged people did not give personal presents." The young men, besides the engagement ring should give nothing but ties, books and candy. Her own husband had given her a copy of "The Story of the Christmas," which were very good, and the Thompsons now repeated the book on good form on the parlor table.

He had given her ties on all holidays, and even on every birthday. There was no reason, Caroline said, why her son should not do so much for Babette. He could afford it, for he was now getting a generous salary. Babette did not object, but she was a practical bit of a girl, and when she might have been making a fortune of useful household things given her by her husband—as other girls she knew did—she took small pleasure in the little bundle of roses that faded on her bureau for every holiday nor in the candles that she shared with her cousins every week-end.

From her own slender earnings she might have bought things that would eventually have helped feather the nest, too, but Caroline assured her that would not have been in good form. The great authority especially cautioned young women against giving anything of a personal nature to their fiancés.

Books, desk necessities, accessories of sport—a riding crop, or something of that sort—were the things suggested. And as Caroline's eldest son, Stephen, had no desk save the office one he toiled at eight hours a day, and knew no sports save struggling with the crowd on his daily trip to and from that office, Babette's choice was limited to books.

He liked the Stevenson and the Kipling she had given him, but how much sooner they could have been married if instead of those books she could have given him something that would do for the little flat—chairs and tables, or a new shawl!

It was two weeks before Christmas and Babette and Stephen had each seen a good deal of the Christmas purchases. It was time to each other they had been told, and each throne stores not far from their own places of work. At the door of the store Babette had received a little holly-leaved card and on it were words that she had never seen before.

"The holiday season is the time when we feel it our duty to urge our customers to refrain from buying household articles. So instead of displaying a large stock of Christmas candles and our usual Christmas looks and flowers, we are recommending gifts of useful household articles and articles of apparel."

What if Caroline could see it that way? mused Babette, and then, yielding to the temptation, she took the elevator to the floor where were sold the household articles, dishes and furniture and kitchen things. There she ran almost precipitately into Stephen. He, too, was holding one of the little holly-leaved cards.

"I have been looking at a set of dishes," he said. "Maybe after we are married we can get one. He pressed Babette's hand—perhaps that wasn't exactly good form, but the crowd was pushing close beside them and no one could have seen. "It's pretty hard to wait," he said. "Babette, if we had the things to start housekeeping on, perhaps we wouldn't have to wait so long. Perhaps in February—I heard today I'm to get a good raise at New Year's."

"If, instead of getting each other a set of Scott or Dickens we could get that set of dishes and some things to cook with—" faltered Babette. "I could give mother $10 every week, and still have enough to pay our little flat on," whispered Stephen, "and Roger will be bringing in more after New Year's."

There was little further explanation. It seemed as if they were compelled by a force greater than the will power of either, greater than the silent influence of Caroline or the binding force of that book on the parlor table. Yes, they did go and they ordered that set of dishes—that with the money Stephen had expected to spend on the leather-bound Scott with Babette's money saved for the edition de luxe of Dickens they went and, after a half hour with a patient saleswoman, bought everything that any clever bride ever needed to make a little flat kitchen complete.

Then they turned their steps homeward toward Caroline.

"Perhaps we can arrange it in January—would you, Babette? I've got enough saved for the bedroom set, and with the dishes and the kitchen things I've enough for the other things. Do you suppose your mother—"

"There was a pause, for traffic made it hard to understand; then a hush. "There's something in that Tennessee on the parlor table that goes like this:

"The old order changeth, yielding place to new,

And God fulfills himself in many ways."

"Perhaps mother will see it that way, and I brought this little card home. Mother is very patriotic."

And, strangely enough, Caroline made no protest, so busy was she at once in reading what the book on good form had to say on "wedding etiquette."

NOT HARD TO RECOGNIZE HIM

Almost at a Glance Papa Could Tell Which of the Swans Was the Father.

Congressman Seaborn Ruddenbury of Georgia gently smiled when the talk topic dwelt on the lord and master of the domestic ranch. He said he was reminded of little John's visit to the zoo.

While wandering around among the animals with his father one afternoon, a crowd of the congressman, a young man came to a miniature lake in which two swans were swimming. "Papa," said little John, pointing a finger at the larger one, over the lake, "which of those swans is the father?"

"Go get them, Johnny?" said the old man, glancing in the direction indicated by the boy.

"I mean the one over there," answered Johnny. "The one with all the feathers pecked off his head and who allowed to have the blisful oration."

"Yes, my son," promptly replied papa, with just a suspicion of a sigh. "Which the father swan, all right."

An Ancient Custom.

Mr. Inghelield, the principal door-keeper at the British house of commons, is dead. His was quite a responsible post, for the holder must have an astounding memory for faces. The house of commons is probably the last place where snuff is regularly taken. The attendants take it because they have long hours of duty in which smoking is barred, and a good many members apparently follow the ancient habit. Mr. Inghelield, the Liverpool Post says, always kept a box on his seat at the door and it was surprising to see how numerous were the members who helped themselves to a pinch as they went in or out of the house.

WENT COLONEL ONE BETTER

Occasion When Talkative Old Bore Met More Than His Match at the Club.

Several and various were the complimentary exclamations heard when the talkative Col. Chalmersday Fitz-Fulke strolled into the Back-to-Nature club one evening just in time to hear a discussion going on about the crows in the cornfields and their part in the winning of the war.

"Haw!" laughed the colonel remissly. "Speaking of crows reminds me of the time my father made a scarecrow out of me, egad."

"Was it your father that did it, colonel?" asked Charlie Southers, smilingly, followed by a snicker among the members.

"Er—uh—yes. You see, the crows in our cornfield became so used to our regular scarecrow that they grew quite fond of him. And they used to bring him grains of corn and deposit them in his pockets and corn-cob pipe. It was quite a beautiful and heart-melting sight, gentlemen," and the colonel flicked a sentimental tear from his eyeglass.

"Well, I conceived the idea of making a scarecrow that would spite the crows and chase them away, don't you know. So father decided to dress me up in some old tattered rags and have me smite them. And, beh, boys, I frightened them so badly that they didn't return for a year, and then it was after they had seen me go abroad," concluded the colonel, picking up Charlie Southers' glass and emptying its contents.

"Hub! That's nothing," said Charlie. "My father was a scarecrow so fierce looking that seven of our crows that had stolen ten bushels of corn came back the next day and put every one back!"

It was several minutes before the colonel could control himself sufficiently to walk out amid the roar that arose.

To North Pole by Airplane.

An expedition to be led by Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, explorer and navigator of Peary's ship Roosevelt, will be sent to the polar regions next June to survey the North pole by airplane. The plan was conceived by Rear Admiral Peary, discoverer of the pole.

Bartlett is a Newfoundland, forty-three years of age. He began explorations 22 years ago, wintering with Peary in the Kane basin in 1897. He commanded the Roosevelt in its famous trip of 1905-8, reaching the eighty-eighth parallel. He was with the Canadian government arctic expedition in 1913-14; his vessel was crushed by the ice, and Bartlett, with 17 others, reached Wrangel island. He left 15 there, and with one Eskimo crossed to Siberia on the ice and returned with a rescuing party.

Pilots of Pine.

Deliveries of southern pine to the government from July 1, 1917, to May 23, 1918, were 2,600,000,000 feet, which, it is estimated, would require a solid train of cars extending from the gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border, and would make a board walk three feet wide extending six times around the world, or build a solid board fence 50 feet high that would circle the geographical borders of the United States.
